The application is very clean with minimum screen impact to take away from the users experience with the navigation and location for the geocache.

The program uses colors that make the user think they are in a forest looking for the cache as they navigate through their location.

According to Lifewire(2019) the things they like and don't like about the application are:

What We Like

- Simple design makes it easy to understand.
- Caches not yet found are simple to spot on the map.
- Works with both Android and iOS devices.
- You can navigate to the cache with a different GPS app on your phone.

What We Don't Like

- Free features found in other apps are not free in this one.
- Can't submit new geocaches through the app.
